Love isn't quite in the air yet but that day is coming. That day being Valentine's Day, the red-satin chocolate-coated holiday ostensibly for lovers, and restaurants are at the ready with heart-shaped pizzas, strawberry cupcakes, and complimentary glasses of champagne.

Valentine's Day is complicated in 2023. It falls on a Tuesday, putting restaurants and diners alike in an awkward position. Do you celebrate Valentine's the weekend before, even though it's not technically Valentine's Day? Or do you wait for Tuesday and do it up big on the day of? Some restaurants are extending it all the way through. But where does that leave Monday, a day that many restaurants traditionally close?

Fortunately this list has a little bit of everything, so you can pick and choose. The specials are available on February 14 unless otherwise noted. Here's where to celebrate Valentine's Day in Dallas:

Eatzi's Market & Bakery

Special offerings include filet mignon with cabernet butter, crab-stuffed lobster tail, espresso and cocoa-rubbed wagyu sirloin with black raspberry port demi-glace, rainbow carrot and vegetable medley, cupcakes, heart-shaped cookies and brownies, chocolate espresso pots de crème, crème brulee, and 5-inch Valentine's Day tower of power with chocolate cake, chocolate mousse and cheesecake. 214-526-1515.
