BY COURTNEY DABNY

In North Texas, things can move from patio weather to sweater weather in a hurry. No leaves, no seasons, no problem. But no matter the weather, Fort Worth's best bakeries have you covered all year round with some seriously good comfort good. And the best treats.

From special occasions and gluten-free fare to after-school treats and everything in between, these are Fort Worth's 20 Best Bakeries:

Eatzi's Market & Bakery

Why We Love It: With six locations scattered around DFW, Eatzi's was a revelation when it first arrived on the scene in 1996. Beloved for its grab-and-go meals, fresh sandwiches and pasta station and the occasional live opera performance, this Fort Worth bakery is full of wonders. Explore a world of chocolate eclairs and cookies and cakes, including a remarkable red velvet.

Must Order Item: The almond croissants are some of the best in town.
