

DEFINITIVE LIST OF 16 GREAT SANDWICHES IN DALLAS FOR FALL 2024

AUGUST 16, 2024
BY RAVEN JORDAN

Dallas is not, historically, a great sandwich town. It has no signature Philly cheesesteak, no po'boy, no Chicago-style Italian beef.

A lot of the problem has been bread: Until recently, the bread situation in Dallas was not great, and you can't have a good sandwich without good bread. Happily, Dallas' bread scene has picked up in recent years (thanks in no small part to the raising of the bar by Empire Baking Co.), and so has the sandwich scene, too.

With that in mind, we've compiled a list of the definitive sandwiches of Dallas. Places come and go, sandwiches too, so this is an up-to-date list as of fall 2024.

The list has some old-time classics, along with newfangled newcomers — combining to give sandwich fans something to chew on. (Note: The majority of these are sandwich shops, not sandwiches served at "regular" restaurants.)

Here is our list of essential sandwiches in Dallas:

Panini from Eatzi's

Eatzi's is justifiably famous for its sandwich counter. At lunch, people line up to get one created to order. The salami, ham, and avocado panini is particularly enticing, served on rosemary focaccia and sauced with ancho chile mayo for $14.
