Where can you find the best sandwiches in Dallas-Fort Worth? You have some ideas.

Readers of The Dallas Morning News' Eat Drink D-FW newsletter shared some of their favorite subs, hot sandwiches and other specific orders in response to call out from our food reporter, Claire Ballor.

A handful of folks helped provide a laundry list of restaurants and shops to start with: AllGood Cafe in Deep Ellum, Dino's Subs in Arlington, Eatzi's (multiple locations), Fond in downtown Dallas, The Great Outdoors (multiple locations), Goodfriend Package in the White Rock area, Jimmy's Food Store in Old East Dallas, Latin Deli in Northeast Dallas, Luckys in Oak Lawn, and Weinberger's Deli in Grapevine.

A few national chains got mentions, too, such as Jason's Deli, Jersey Mike's Subs and Jimmy John's. There were also a few memories of places gone-by, including Great American Hero and Antoine's.
